

Standing Alone

A Collection of Monologues by

Philip Middleton Williams

Contact:

Philip Middleton Williams

16600 SW 77th Avenue

Palmetto Bay, FL 33157

pmw@barkbarkwoofwoof.com

www.pmwplaywright.com

The scripts are available by request.

Another Great Literary Career

From Can't Live Without You.

Donny is a best-selling romance novelist who writes under the name of Amanda Longington. He is talking to a character in his first novel.

Do You Get It

From The Sugar Ridge Rag.

The mother of a soldier in the Army in Vietnam in 1970 talks with her husband about what keeps her awake at night.

Free! Powerful Muscles Fast!

Mike talks about how he learned that big biceps don't make you a superhero.

Hey, Dad

A son remembers his father.

Just A Local

From Cooler Near the Lake

Kenny, a local guy, shares an honest moment with the summer people up on Lake Michigan.

The Last Time You Thought About Me

From Can't Live Without You.

Bobby, a character in a romance novel written by a man under a female name, wants to know why he has not been in any more of the writer's novels.

Quite The Connoisseur

From Tucumcari Tonight!

Alex explains why he only drinks a certain brand of water.

Remember Me?

My left ankle reminds me of a moment that left a scar.

Sex... I Don't Know

From All Together Now

Fox is a fifteen-year-old boy meeting his biological father for the first time. They are getting acquainted, and Fox has some rather interesting views on growing up.

Simple Black Marks

From A Good Year.

An English teacher at a prestigious New England private school addresses the class at the end of the school year.

That Goddam Tree

Larry, a white heterosexual homophobe, reacts to A Tree Grows in Longmont.

There's Something About a Ginger

From Cabana Boy

Fond recollections about a boy named Sean with that something special.

What Great Question in Life Do You Answer

From Can't Live Without You.

Bobby, a character in a novel, appears and confronts the writer and the characters in the romance novel his writer has created while leaving him languishing in a desk drawer.

You Finally Did It

From A Tree Grows in Longmont.

Saying goodbye to a loved one and wishing them well on their next big adventure.

Zero Sum Game

From The Sugar Ridge Rag.

Dave Granger, an Army medic at a MASH in Vietnam, is home on leave in Sugar Ridge, Ohio, in June 1974. He talks about one night on duty.

Copyright © 2022 by Philip Middleton Williams

No part of these plays may be produced or reproduced in whole or in part unless permission is granted by the playwright or his designated agents.